The COVID-19 pandemic has caused all of us to rethink our life’s purpose and priorities. Because we are currently unable to welcome you to campus, we will highlight some of the academic opportunities that we provide our students in this edition of the Buckeye Bulletin.

We have also included a short video from our Associate Dean, Dr. Stephanie Brown.

> “I’ve taught in a number of different institutions and none of them compares to what we have at Ohio State Newark. Watch my video to learn more about what is waiting for you at The Ohio State University at Newark.”

- Faculty With an average class size of 26 students, faculty will know you by name and expect you to participate in classroom discussions and other activities. Because of this relationship, you will have opportunities to work alongside faculty in research projects, writing scholarly articles or becoming lab assistants.

- Research Sometimes when we hear the word ‘research’ we think only of lab coats and scientific experiments, but research is much more than that. Yes, Dr. Ozlem Dogan-Ekici is conducting cancer research in her lab, while Dr. Kenneth Madsen is studying border walls and Dr. Tiyi Morris explores civil rights activism, peace activism and anti-poverty initiatives. Our students can be a part of these faculty-led studies or begin their own with grants available to help pay for travel to conferences, supplies, etc.

- Beyond the Classroom When you enroll on our campus, you truly get the best of both worlds, as Dr. Brown mentioned in her video (referenced above). We have the resources of a research I institution, yet offer the support and community feel of a small liberal arts college, at a fraction of the cost. Our community supports our students by offering peer tutoring, a math learning center, a writer’s studio and so much more.

Please check out the admitted student web page where you will find other helpful resources. As always, please contact our Admissions Office at any time (740.366.9333) or Newark-askabuckeye@osu.edu to speak to your admissions counselor when you have specific questions or needs.

Please be well and take care of yourself!

Sincerely,

Diane Kanney
Director of Enrollment
