OSU Student Employee Supervisor FAQ

1. How does Workday affect COTC student employees?
   Workday has no effect on COTC student employees. The application to hire process is the same as it was before Workday.

2. Who is our Manager Liaison and what do they do?
   The Manager Liaison for Newark's Student Employee Supervisors is Lisa Smith, smith.4312@osu.edu, 740-366-9292. She initiates the Job Requisition process for Student Employment positions and processes separations when a student is no longer working.

3. Who is our HR Consultant and what do they do?
   The HR Consultant for Newark is Sherri Abbott, abbott.123@osu.edu, 740-364-9550. She is the first level of approval for workflow processes in Workday.

4. Who is our Recruiter/TA Consultant and what do they do?
   The Recruiter/TA Consultant for Newark is Matthew Delucas, delucas.4@osu.edu, 614-688-2272. He initiates and finalizes the hiring and on-boarding processes.

5. What is the Job Management (JM) Model in Workday?
   The Job Management (JM) Model is the employee model for student employees. Supervisors have a distinct JM Supervisor Organization for student employees. When a student leaves a job, that job/position is ended. A new student employee would not be filling the prior student’s job but be considered hired into a new position.

6. How do I get a job posted in Workday?
   Contact the Manager Liaison for the template to create a job description. Once a job description has been established the Manager Liaison will create a Job Requisition to start the process of posting in Workday. You will receive an automated email from Workday alerting you of the submission and will be able to follow its progress through the process.

7. Where/how does a student apply for a job?
   The students will need to login to Workday https://workday.osu.edu/ and use the “Career” icon in their “Applications” area to search for open jobs and complete an application. Please refer to this Find Student Employment guide for more details.

8. How do I hire a student?
   After a decision to hire has been made you will need to email the Recruiter/TA Consultant and cc the Manager Liaison of your decision and the pay rate of the job description. If the student you are hiring is already working in another position, the Recruiter/TA Consultant will need to know if the student will be continuing in the other position or not. If they will have multiple jobs, the FTE may need to be adjusted to not exceed a total 70% FTE.
9. How do I follow the progress of applicants in the hiring process?
   This is video of how to follow the progress of an applicant.

   Unfortunately, the supervisors have not been experiencing the beginning of the video regarding moving applicants into review. However, it does explain where and how to see the movement of an applicant after that step through the remaining hiring process.

10. How are the students notified about the hiring/on-boarding process?
    The students will be notified within Workday throughout the process. They will receive an Offer Letter that will need to be accepted before the on-boarding will begin.

11. Do the students still need to certify their I-9 in Human Resources?
    Yes, the students will still need to go to Human Resources to certify their I-9. They will need to complete the various new hire forms within Workday before taking the appropriate identification to Human Resources for certification.

12. Will/can a student have more than 1 timecard in Workday?
    No, there will only be one timecard for each student employee.
    a) Students earning both FWS & Wages: Workday can identify who has FWS and has rules built in to ensure the student has met all eligibility requirements. It will charge the appropriate amount to FWS and the remaining amount to the department budget.
    b) Students working in multiple jobs: Each job in Workday has a unique position number. The student will select the appropriate position number within their timecard before entering time for each job. They will “submit” once and the time entered for all jobs will be submitted for approval from the appropriate supervisor.

13. How will Workday determine the division of FWS when a student is working in multiple FWS jobs?
    Workday will apply FWS eligibility chronologically; so, time worked at the beginning of the week will be charged to FWS before time worked at the end of the week.

14. How do I remove my job posting from Workday?
    Workday will automatically remove your job posting when your “number of available openings” is zero. If you would like your posting to be removed before that, please contact the Manager Liaison.

15. How do I initiate a merit raise for a student employee?
    This process has not changed. Please email the Manager Liaison with your request for a merit raise and include justification for the request. The standard merit raise is .30 and there will not be any department budget adjustments made.

16. What needs to be done when a student will no longer be working for me?
    Email the Manager Liaison when it has been determined that a student will no longer work for you. Please include the effective date of the separation.
